SAN PEDRO FIRE PANIC

500,000 BARREL GAS TANK EXPLODES; HUNDREDS FLEE; ANTICIPATE PATH OF FLAME

500,000 Barrels Ignite
While Shock Shakes
the City

L. A. FIREMEN CALLED

Flames Shoot High, But Nearby Property Is Saved From Blaze

[By Associated Press]
SAN PEDRO, Aug. 17.—Anticipating a violent explosion when the burning General Petroleum Oil company tank reaches the water line some time this afternoon, residents in the Point Fermin district between 26th and 31st streets on the north and south and Pacific avenue on the east, this afternoon were warned to quit their homes until such time as the danger point is passed.

The warning was issued by General Superintendent Adams of the oil company. According to Mr. Adams, when the oil burns to the water line it will form a vast amount of steam which may explode and hurl the liquid fire in all directions. The oil is being consumed by flames at the rate of 50,000 barrels an hour and the danger point should arrive in about an hour, officials declared.

A flurry among the spectators was caused when the wind whipped the flames into a roaring cyclone. A fire and sent it swirling, detached from a big blaze, toward a crowd of about 1,000 persons.

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 17.—Spontaneous combustion in a huge 500,000 barrel oil tank owned by the General Petroleum company today caused a loss estimated at a million dollars, and nearly cost the life of Henry Hendley, 68 year old night watchman at the tank farm, who was trapped behind a wall of flames and emerged a human torch. Hendley was seriously burned about the face, hands and body, but is expected to recover.

The presence of mind of P. G. Marpley, who resides near the scene of the fire, is all that saved Hendley's life. Marpley smothered the flames with his coat.

A fresh wind from the southwest has sprung and nearby residences are again endangered, it is said. Intermittent explosions are occurring in the burning tank and a danger zone is being maintained by the police.

A detachment of soldiers from Fort McArthur, ordered out by their commander, Major George Ruhlen, Jr., are assisting the civil authorities in keeping the curious behind the established danger lines.

The burning tank covers five and one-half acres and is thirty feet deep. It is estimated that the fire will continue to burn for three days.

Approximately 300 feet from the fire is a storage tank containing 50,000 barrels of distillate, while a short distance beyond two 55,000 barrel tanks are filled to capacity with crude oil.

A constant stream of water is being played on the steel sides of the tanks to reduce the danger of explosion from the intense heat.

SYCAMORE ROAD BIDS ARE OPENED

Is Referred to the City Engineer for Checking

PROTEST, AUGUST 27

Council Takes Action on Many Improvements
in the City

Bids were opened by the Glendale city council Thursday night for the improvement of Sycamore Canyon road from a point 200 feet east of Sinclair avenue to the eastern city limits. This stretch has been in very poor condition for months and the residents of that section are anxious that it be improved at the earliest possible moment. These bids were referred to the city engineer for checking and report.

The hearing of the protests against the improvement of this stretch of road was set for August 27.

There were no protests against the improvement of a portion of Acacia avenue, and the next step in this work was ordered taken.

The hearing of protests against the opening and widening of Doran street, from Glendale avenue to Adams street, was set for August 30.

The city attorney was instructed to draft the necessary proceedings for the establishing of a commercial district on tract No. 6190 as asked for by T. W. Watson.

Another commercial district was asked for by J. R. Gray on Fourth street between Allen and Thompson, and the city attorney was instructed to draft the necessary proceedings.

A communication from the Barum-Walters company for the refund of certain moneys paid to the city was referred to the committee of the whole.

The following ordinances were adopted:

An ordinance for the opening and widening of Eighth street.

An ordinance changing the name of Alameda street to Alameda avenue.

An ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Patterson avenue.

An ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Railroad street.

An ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Pioneer drive.

An ordinance establishing the grade on a portion of Concord street.

GLENDALE CALLED TO THE CLEOPHAS CONCERT

Iowa Folks to Join in Great Demonstration
Saturday Night

A special message is being broadcast from Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music club, urging all members of that organization to attend the concert at Hollywood Bowl, Saturday night when Miss Gertrude Cleophas of this city will be the solo artist. Miss Cleophas heads the Artist section of the club for the coming year and as a courtesy to her, fellow member should turn out largely.

There would seem to be no reason for anyone to stay away, for this wonderful concert which has been advertised as "Glendale-Iowa Night" in compliment to Miss Cleophas, who is a native of Iowa and resident of Glendale. The Cavanaugh studio on North Orange is already at work making up parties to go, and music lovers who desire to attend and join such parties have only to communicate with the studio.

"Exchange tickets" good for a 50c seat, are on sale for 25 cents at the chamber of commerce and the Glendale Music company.

No such opportunity to hear a Glendale pianist accompanied by the splendid orchestra directed by Emil Oberhofer, will be afforded again this season. All Glendale should respond to the generous invitation which Hollywood and the bowl management is extending to a little sister city.

The widening and laying out of Grayndol street.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Hillside drive.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Vista Court.

A resolution of intention for the improvement of Chilton Drive.

A petition was received asking that four lots at the corner of Windsor and Adams as a commercial district. The hearing on this matter was set for August 30.

W. J. Kern was granted an extension of 10 days on the improvement of a portion of Milford street.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of a culvert at the west end of Riverside drive just west of the Southern Pacific tracks.

On motion of Councilman Hall the sum of $150 was authorized spent for an air compressor.

The city engineer was instructed to draft a resolution for the laying of a 5-foot sidewalk on the west side of Brand from Cerritos avenue south.

The council adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, August 21, at 7 o'clock.

ALLEGED HE DROVE
AUTO WHILE DRUNK

Arthur Wareham, 453 North Madison street, Los Angeles, was arrested by Capt. Loving and Lieut. Royle at 6 o'clock last night on West Salem, the charge against him, according to police records, being that he was "under the influence of liquor." The records claim that Wareham drove his car over the curb and onto the sidewalk, almost striking several children.

Wareham was placed in headquarters jail pending his hearing today.

TENTATIVE TAX LEVY OF $1.14 SUBMITTED TO THE CITY COUNCIL MEETING

Figures Are All Wrong, Says Councilman Hall, and Will Be Adjusted at Meeting Set for Tuesday
Evening at the City Hall

THE ASSESSED VALUATION IS $30,092,460

If Tentative Rate Is Sustained, Would Raise $343,053.26 for the Budget of Approximately $275,000;
$80,000 Now in General Reserve

From the viewpoint of the taxpayer, the big business transacted at the Thursday night meeting of the city council was the introduction of an ordinance prepared by City Attorney Morrow, fixing the total tax rate for the city of Glendale for the year beginning July 1, 1923, at $1.14 per $100 of valuation. Of this amount 96c is for the general budget, 10c for library and the balance to cover interest and sinking funds for the redemption of the various outstanding bond issues, of which there are six. It practically duplicates these latter rate of last year.

Councilman A. S. Hall declares "it is merely tentative and not a figure in it is correct." In explanation of that statement and in justification of the introduction of the ordinance under such circumstances Mr. Hall says the figures must be given to county officials before the last Tuesday in August, and Glendale's city charter requires that a certain period must intervene between the introduction and the passage of such an ordinance. Therefore this ordinance was introduced with the understanding that its figures will be modified at a special session of the council to be held next Tuesday night.

The total assessed valuation as furnished by the county officials is named as $30,092,460. At a rate of $1.14 this would yield returns of $343,053.26. According to Councilman Hall, the general budget adopted by the city council called for $275,000 less assets of $6000 in taxes still to be collected, but the charter provides for the building up of a reserve fund to equal 3-10 of the amount acquired from taxes in order to put the city on a cash basis, because tax money is not available until the latter part of October. Last year that fund was only $15,000. This year it is $30,000, and hereabouts. But provision must be made for next year.

City Comptroller Saulsbury refused to discuss the matter, declaring that the ordinance had not yet been adopted and therefore there was no basis for discussion. City Attorney Morrow took practically the same stand and refused to talk. The full text of the ordinance will be found on an inside page.

There was the usual good attendance with almost all members present, a few still being out of town on their vacations. George Karr presided at a short business session when routine affairs were disposed of.

Mr. Rieger, whose friends call him "the Scouter of San Francisco" because of his being in the perfume business, gave a number of personal reminiscences of what Rotary had accomplished in various cities. He stated that the vital point was how the men exemplified good Rotary business ethics in their own life and in their contact with others. He said it was not a question of how much money they could make from their patrons, but what service they could give in an open-hearted, square way to the people who dealt with them.

Paul Rieger is past president of the San Francisco Rotary club. At the next regular meeting of the Glendale Rotary club it is the plan of the club to have each one of the members in turn tell something specially of his business. One of the values of the club is that he men from various occupations get together and get acquainted. This develops into friendship and an interest in what the other fellow is doing. The plan for next week's meeting is to have J. E. Phillips take charge after the business session. Instead of meeting at the Citizens' building, the members will convene at Mr. Phillips' business establishment at the corner of North Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue.

Glendale's Community Service was well represented among the large crowd of spectators who witnessed a very interesting exhibition swimming meet on Thursday night at the pool at Brookside park, Pasadena. The program of exhibition numbers and races lasted until after 10 o'clock.

Duke Kahnamoku, champion 50-yard swimmer of the Los Angeles Athletic club, came within a second of his record of 23 seconds, in a race with Buddy Smith, also of the Los Angeles club, who lost by three strokes, at Brookside park plunge last night. The Duke also won the 100 yard free style race for men in 57.3 seconds, and was presented with a wrist watch and an Elk's trophy cup. R. Harrison of Venice, was second in the 100 yard race, in which there were four starters. A number of aquatic events were held. The program, under the auspices of the Pasadena Athletic club, was attended by a large crowd.

Burton Recovering
From Operation

J. W. M. Burton, who underwent an operation for appendicitis three days ago at the Research hospital, is said to be better this morning, though still in a very critical condition. Mr. Burton, who is one of the best known realty operators of the city, and who was the builder of the Glendale-Montrose line, has been in ill health for a long time, but did not yield to his disabilities until Sunday.

This report stated, also, that in the general reserve fund on July 1, 1923, there was $80,524.23. The reserves last year were about $15,000.

POSTOFFICE SITE COMMITTEE MEETS POSTMASTER

All Differences Are Adjusted Pleasantly in Cooperation

R. F. Kitterman, chairman of the newly appointed postoffice committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, reports that a conference which he and his colleagues—H. M. Butts and Dr. Henry R. Harrower—had with Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson Thursday afternoon proved a very harmonious meeting at which any and all differences were adjusted very pleasantly. Mr. Jackson said he was ready and willing to work with the committee at all times.

The committee will present its report at the next meeting of the chamber of commerce directorate.

MORE TAXES NEXT YEAR SAYS COUNCILMAN DAVIS AT CITY COUNCIL MEETING

"I Want It Distinctly Understood That the Property Owners of Glendale Will Pay More Than Last Year," He Says

TAKES ISSUE WITH THE PRESS FIGURES

Declares Captain Watson Inaccurate in Statement of Facts on Operation of the Revenue and Income of City; Cost $80,000 More to Run City

Councilman Sam Davis took issue with statements made by Capt. T. D. Watson, editor of the Glendale Press at the meeting of the council last night with regard to the tax rate that should prevail in Glendale this year.

"The assertions made by Mr. Watson are misleading and incorrect," said Mr. Davis. "In the first place, Glendale does not fix its own tax rate. It simply prepares its budget, informs the county officials how much it needs to conduct the affairs of the city for the coming year and the county sets the rate. A 90c rate, as suggested by Mr. Watson, is impossible with the present assessed valuation.

"Another thing, I want it distinctly understood that the property owner of Glendale will pay more taxes this year than last. Last year $219,000 was raised for the general budget, and $24,000 of this amount went into the reserve, leaving $195,000 for the actual operation of the city. This year the general budget is $275,000, which is $80,000 more than was needed to run the affairs of the city last year. The people should not be led to believe that their taxes will be lowered this year, for that is not the case. Taxes in Glendale will be higher this year than last.

"It is true the tax rate will be lowered, but this will be more than offset by the increased assessed valuation placed by the county assessor.

"So far as the council staying within the budget limit is concerned I would like to say that it will not be known until June 30, 1924, whether or not we have stayed within the budget. Whether or not we stay within that budget can have nothing to do with this year's taxes. The tax rate will be made and the people will pay the amount of their bills. With this money we will endeavor to run the affairs of the city. If we do it, and I believe we can, all will be well; if not, next year's taxes will have to make up the deficiency.

"But the people of Glendale should not go away with the impression that Glendale's taxes this year will be lower than they were last year, regardless of the statements in the Glendale Press, for they will not. It will cost $80,000 more to run the city this year than it did last year and the property owners of this city will pay this money through their tax bills."

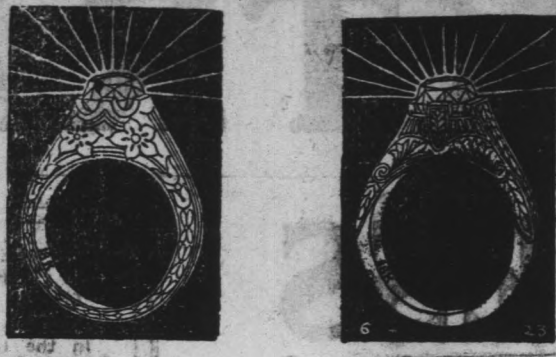

After the meeting had adjourned Councilman Davis said: "Whether councilmen have been elected on an economy ticket or not they can only cut the expenses of the city down to a certain figure, and that is what has been done this year. And let me say that no particular members of the council have done the 'pruning.' All of us had a hand in making this budget, and if the city is run on an economical basis the entire council should be given the credit. Every man on this council is working for the interests of Glendale and is earning ten times as much as he gets."

Work on the buildings that will house the depot, offices and power station of the Glendale and Montrose Railway company at 133 North Glendale avenue was started this morning. These will cost about $14,000 to erect and will be finished within 60 days.

The forward end of the structure to be erected on Glendale avenue will be taken up by a waiting room, while at the rear there will be offices for the various officials and the business department. The building that will face on Howard street will house the power plant to be used in connection with the Glendale avenue electric line.

PREOPENING SALE NEW CHOICE SITES OPENS SATURDAY

Twining & Myers to Offer
Tree-covered Tract on Verdugo Road

A beautiful little tract of extremely choice building sites, all covered with a remarkable growth of oak and sycamore trees, will be placed on the market for preopening buyers, Saturday morning. This tract is located on Verdugo road and extends from Opechee Way on the south to El Rito avenue on the north. Three streets—June Lane, Brook Lane and Fern Lane—are being opened east and west through the tract, which is being placed on the market by the firm of Twining & Myers, 227-A South Brand.

This tract is covered with the kind of growth that has made the Verdugo Woodlands district famous. These homesites are among the most attractive to be found anywhere in or around Glendale. The popular Verdugo road runs along one entire side of this tract, while the charming Verdugo canyon stream borders the opposite side. Each site is artistically laid out with gracefully curving streets, modern improvements, etc.

The prices that are to be charged for these lots are a genuine surprise, being far below figures at which anything of the same character in Glendale has ever sold. They range from $900 to $1975, the latter being for a lot at the corner of Verdugo and Opechee Way. Such low figures for high class property of this character are unheard of. They bring the better class of homesites down to the man with moderate means—enabling him to have a home beneath beautiful trees and beside a charming stream—just like the man who has millions.

Another feature that will appeal to the man of moderate income will be the fact that temporary rustic homes will be permitted on the property. It is not the aim of the subdividers to have this property covered with shacks. On the contrary, this firm will insist on every home erected on the land being an expensive rustic dwelling in miniature. The same care that is used in planning the larger homes will be employed in determining the property to be used in connection with these structures. They will be homes of which anyone would be proud to own, notwithstanding the fact that they will not cost a fortune.

The subdividers believe it will take but a few days to sell out this tract. The number of lots is limited and already inquiries have been made regarding this beautiful piece of property.

W. L. Twining and L. H. Myers have been in the subdivision business for years, having been connected with the F. P. Newport company before forming the present partnership. They are the subdividers of Mesa Crest in Montrose, in which the improvements are about finished and almost all of the lots have been sold, and also Honolulu Acres, which has been sold out. They are also the subdividers of Woodland Park, in which tract there are but a few lots left.

SANTA CRUZ IS READY FOR BIG CONVENTIONS

Grand Councils of Y. M. I.
and Y. L. I. to Meet

SANTA CRUZ, Aug. 17.—This city awaits the coming of many thousands of delegates and visitors to the annual grand councils of the Young Men's and Young Ladies' Institute, to be held here August 19 to 22. The advance guard of Institute members has already started to arrive, and each incoming train brings additional delegations. Miss Clara Fagen and members of the Santa Cruz arrangements committee have completed the entertainment programme, which commences Saturday, August 18.

Two brilliant social functions will take place Saturday evening, August 18, the Y. M. I. being hosts at a dancing party in the St. George hotel ballroom, and the Y. L. I. members playing hostesses at a dance in the Casa del Rey ballroom. A special train will arrive here at 6:30 p. m. from San Francisco, bearing hundreds of delegates and Institute members.

With the arrival of two special trains and several automobiles carrying the delegates, the parade of the two organizations will be formally launched. A monster street parade through the business section of Santa Cruz will be participated in by many thousands of Y. M. I. and Y. L. I. members from all parts of the state, including the crack drill teams and famous parades of many councils of the two societies. The parade will pass the reviewing stand, where prominent grand officers and grand directors of both lodges, will view the pageant moving in front of them towards the Santa Cruz city park, where the procession will terminate. Here solemn high mass will be celebrated in the open air, commencing at 11:30 a. m., Rev. Thos. J. O'Connell, grand chaplain of the Young Men's Institute, being celebrant.

That afternoon will witness many entertainment functions. All of the fraternal and civic societies of Santa Cruz will maintain open house. Fleets of autos will convey visitors on sightseeing tours. Swimming events and surf features will be staged in the ocean, in front of the big Casino structure. The competitive drills for the two societies' council trophies, will take place in the Casa del Rey hotel courtyard. Dancing and entertainment will rule throughout the city.

The thirty-ninth annual grand council of the Y. M. I. will be opened in the St. George hotel, Sunday morning, August 19, following a requiem high mass in Holy Cross church. Grand President Clifford Russell of Sacramento, will be in the chair. Mrs. Ella Graham of San Jose, grand president of the Y. L. I. will preside at the business sessions of the Y. L. I. organization, commencing Monday morning, August 20, at the Casa del Rey. Two business sessions will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the annual election of grand officers and grand directors in the two organizations taking place Wednesday afternoon, August 22. Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, D. D., of San Francisco, will be guest of honor at the two opening sessions, on Monday morning, August 20.

An automobile trip and barbecue

AT THE BIG TREES, ON MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 20, WILL BE FOLLOWED BY THE CONVENTION GRAND BALL IN THE CASINO BALLROOM ON TUESDAY NIGHT.

The grand convention banquet will take place Wednesday evening, August 22. Grand officers and grand directors of the two societies will be entertained at special functions in their honor on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Extraordinary growth in membership, extension of welfare and civic activities, and tremendous stimulation of building work, will be reported by practically every council represented at the coming grand councils. Completion and formal dedication of the new million-dollar Catholic Center project of the Young Men's Institute, in San Francisco, will be a big event in that city in late October.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET MONDAY

Next Monday afternoon the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held in Legion hall at 2:30. At that time Mrs. Kaeding will give a report of the county caucus at Long Beach, which she attended last week. A report will also be given of the food sale which the auxiliary is having Saturday, at 142 South Brand.

ANCIENT SPEAR IN WHALE BODY

[By Associated Press]
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 17.—A harpoon believed to be over a century old was found in the body of a 60-ton whale killed off Humboldt county, California, recently. It bore the inscription "Bedford, 1820," which was taken to indicate that one of the old New England whaling crews had encountered the monster cetacean, but had failed to take him.

SECRETARY SANDERS TO REPORT ON STUDY

Secretary E. F. Sanders states that he will not present as a whole, his report of the week he spent at the summer school for secretaries of commerce, at Stanford university to the chamber of directors. Instead he has given them a list of subjects handled at that conference and will report on such as the directors desire. He has prepared a full syllabus of the points brought out under each one, both by the speakers and the discussions which followed. This, he thinks, will give the board members a better knowledge of the work of the school along lines in which they are interested, than if he presented a long general report.

MRS. M'OMBER ENTERTAINS ST. MARK'S GUILD

Mrs. J. L. McOmber of 1530 East Broadway was hostess on Thursday afternoon at a social meeting of the members of St. Mark's guild of the Episcopal church. Rev. Kemp led in the devotional exercises. There were twenty-three present and five visitors. During the afternoon delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting of the guild will be a social session on August 30, place of meeting to be announced later.

CANADIAN CLUB ENJOYS DELIGHTFUL DANCE

Glendale-Canadian club members and friends enjoyed a most delightful dancing party held Thursday at the K. of P. hall, corner of South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. There were fifty couples present. Excellent music for dancing was furnished by Kelly's Shrine orchestra. During the evening refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The committee in charge of arrangements included Mrs. W. J. Farber, R. A. Cross, and R. C. Hemphill.

TELETYPE TAX LEVY SUBMITTED

Matter to Be Adjusted at Meeting on Tuesday
by City Council

OLD FIGURES USED

No Action Taken on the Measure by the City Council

With the assessed valuation of the city given to the city council by the county as $30,092,460, a tentative tax levy, fixed last night at the city council meeting, every figure of which is wrong, according to City Councilman Hall, is as follows:

At the meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, the true figures will be inserted, it is said, and the tax levy adjusted.

These figures give a levy of .96 cents for the general budget with increases for the library and provisions to meet interest and sinking fund charges on various sections of the city, which figures were taken from last year's budget, according to Mr. Hall. The ordinance follows:

ORDINANCE NO.

SOLID SOUTH TO DEMAND PAY FOR LOYALTY

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17 (United Press).—The "Solid South" is going to demand payment for the long years of loyal service to the Democratic party.

The bill, now considered overdue by southern politicians, will be presented in the form of an invitation for the party to hold its next national convention in the southland and a request that the candidacy of Senator Oscar W. Underwood for the presidential nomination be endorsed.

Organized efforts are under way to back up the item regarding the national convention. Atlanta interests have solicited important personages in the party seeking support for its plan to hold the coming convention in Dixie. A number of party leaders have pledged their co-operation.

Atlanta, aside from the claim that it is a moral obligation of the Democrats to meet in the south this year, will point out that it has ample quarters for the convention sessions, adequate hotel arrangements and is equally as accessible as San Francisco.

Senator Underwood in a virtual announcement of his candidacy for the presidential nomination, in a recent speech in Montgomery, Ala., sounded the keynote of the south's plea for endorsement of a "native son."

"The time has come, Underwood declared, when the 'Solid South' should ask of the Democratic party that it send the southland a delegate to the convention and stand once again under the banner of democracy."

"I am sure that our brethren from the north are no longer considering as a vital question the state from which the candidate hails; but their first thought is the principles for which he stands and their second the character of the candidate."

The south plans to use only moral suasion to secure payment of its bill, but it considers it has a legitimate claim and will press for payment.

SOVIETS ALTER COAT OF ARMS

[By Associated Press]
LONDON, Aug. 17.—The All-Russian Soviet executive, according to a London message, has decided to alter once more the coat of arms of the Russian Soviet Republic.

For the last few months the coat of arms consisted of a crossed sickle and hammer, but now this gives way to a more elaborate design which represents the same sickle and hammer crossed in the background of a globe representing the earth and surrounded by a wreath of wheat with the words "Workers of the World, Unite" transcribed in Russian, French, English, German, Arabic and Chinese.

Reforestation Plan for Giant Redwoods

[By Associated Press]
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—California's giant redwoods, some of which, still standing, were saplings when the Vikings first sighted the coast of North America, and were good-sized trees when William the Conqueror's Norman hordes landed on the shores of England a thousand years ago, will have been entirely destroyed within a short time, according to the California Redwood association here, unless measures now being undertaken for their reforestation prove successful.

Nurseries for young redwoods have recently been established by two lumber companies in northern California.

At Fort Bragg, Mendocino county, 800,000 young redwood trees are now growing from seed, a sufficient number to reforest 2,800 acres a year. Enough additional young trees to reforest 4,600 acres annually will be supplied by this company in the near future.

Another company, at Scotia, Humboldt county, has a redwood nursery of 500,000 trees, while a number of the 22 redwood companies in California have taken a practical interest in reforestation. Besides the nursery trees, about one-fifth additional second growth lumber is expected to sprout from the stumps of old trees.

On a beach one summer day a half dozen girls in red one-piece bathing suits were playing ball. There were some cows in a nearby meadow, and after a bit the farm hand, who was in charge of them, went up to his boss and complained: "Say, boss, them gals is a-scarin' my cows." "Ah, Jethro," said the old farmer with a sigh, "times is changed since I was young. In them days it was the cows 'wot scared the gals."

ALBICORE MISSING ON LOCAL SHORE

[By Associated Press]
SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 17.—Aid of government seaplanes is to be asked to discover the huge schools of albacore and tuna which have failed to appear in their usual haunts off the southern coast this summer.

The non-appearance of the fish threatens a large fishing and canning industry here with disaster. Hundreds of men and women in the tuna canneries and a fishing fleet of approximately 600 boats will soon be idle unless the mystery of the whereabouts of the chicken of the sea is solved.

Fishing boats returning from the tuna's usual habitat in the Channel Islands are bringing in a few dozen lone albacore where formerly hundreds of thousands of tons of the fish were caught.

It is believed that the seaplanes, flying from a great height, will be able to sight the schools of the large fish and trace the course of their 1923 migration. In the meantime, the shortage has caused a price war among the canneries, and where the opening price of 1922 was $120 a ton, some canneries are now offering $300 a ton for the fish.

SIXTEEN TEACHERS ADDED TO HIGH SCHOOL STAFF

Nine of Last Year are to Be Absent During the Coming Term

According to Principal George U. Moyses, nine teachers who were on the staff of Glendale High last year will be absent this year and sixteen who will be new to the school have been added to the staff. Mary Beth Abbott, head of the art department, is absent on leave touring Europe; Frederick F. Bornecamp is taking post graduate work at Harvard; Florence Knight, head of physical education for girls, is at Columbia University. A new name but not a new teacher is that of Mrs. Lambert, formerly Mabel Odell, teacher of Spanish.

The new comers include Florence Ahl, graduate of the University of California, who has been at Eureka for four years and who will be one of the history instructors. Another addition to the history department of which Miss Maud Soper is the head, will be Herman Weibe of this city who has been on the staff of the Security National Bank. He is now returning to school work and will teach sociology as well as history. Before coming to California he was on the faculty of a college in Kansas.

Hazel Allen, who is a Stanford graduate, whose home is in Pasadena, will teach Spanish. She comes to Glendale from the schools of Fresno, and will be under Miss Isabel Stevens, head of the foreign language department. Another Spanish instructor will be Mrs. Juanita Courtenay of New York City schools, who lived in Mexico for a number of years. Margaret Cusart, graduate of Stanford, will also teach Spanish.

Ruford Blair, who comes from Nevada, has been added to the English department under Miss Jennie Freeman. Ernestine Kinsley of Redondo will also teach English.

Katherine Lewis, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, who comes from Spokane, Washington, will teach general science under Earl T. Brown, head of the department.

Joseph B. Wirt, who was graduated from Northwestern University and who comes to Glendale from China, will specialize on mathematics, electrical and radio work. He has studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and has had experience in the army where he achieved a captaincy. Miss Merle McGrath, graduate of the University of California, who has been teaching in Los Angeles High, also comes from mathematics, and so does Miss Mary Brownrigg who comes from Kansas.

Eleanor Plaw, graduate of the University of Fine Arts in San Francisco, who comes to Glendale from Concord, Cal., will have hand drawing. Mrs. Madge E. Stephenson who is a graduate of the San Francisco Institute of Art and who has been teaching in Downey High, has also been added to the art department staff.

Ada A. Wilshire, one of the instructors in girls' physical training department, is a graduate of Mills College and comes from San Bernardino to Glendale.

Miss Beulah B. Wood, who was graduated from the University of California, and has been in the government service at Mare Island for rafting and testing the strength of materials, will teach architectural and mechanical drawing under George O. Lockwood, head of the department.

Park L. Torrell, graduate of Redondo, and post-graduate of "Cal Tech" and the University of California, where he was an instructor in chemistry last year, will teach chemistry and general science. Other members of the staff are: George U. Moyses, principal; A. L. Morgan, vice principal; Mrs. George U. Moyses, vice principal; Edith C. Abel, art; Ethel W. French, French; Carey Ballard, physical education; J. Rhea Baker, head of commercial department; Gertrude Ballard, director of the writing; Harold L. Brewster, director of dramatic art work; Earl Brown, head of science department; Howard L. Butterfield, physical education; James E. Clark, physical work; Mary Gladys Cory,

MARLENEES GIVE MUSICALE AT HOME

Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Marlenee of 301 South Central avenue, entertained with a dinner party and musicale at their home on Thursday night, honoring Mrs. Marlenee's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Armstrong Welcome, who arrived Monday for a short visit with her mother before leaving again in September to resume her studies at Chicago. Mrs. Welcome is a very talented violinist and after her studies at Chicago this winter is planning to go to either Paris or Vienna.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and covers were laid for fourteen, including Mrs. Dorothy Armstrong Welcome, Mrs. Milton Armstrong, Baron and Baroness Oilly de Kopp, T. O. Taylor of Hollywood, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Ella Fagiolli, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Diederich, Miss Clara Diederich, Mrs. Richard Diederich and Dr. and Mrs. Marlenee.

After dinner an informal musicale was enjoyed. Mr. Faggoli sang an oratorio and an aria in Italian, followed by a group of English songs. Mrs. Welcome played a group of violin numbers and Mrs. Marlenee a group of piano selections.

FORTUNATOS GIVE BANQUET TO TEAM

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fortunato of 534 North Isabel street entertained as their guests at a banquet given Thursday night at their home, the members of the Jensen's Drug bowling team, which finished a close second in the city league tournament that has just closed. The team captured its share of the prizes, including the $25 cash prize given by the Glendale Daily Press. A color scheme of yellow was carried out in the decorations throughout the house. The favors were very clever, being of miniature bowling balls and ten pins. A five course dinner was served at 7 o'clock. The remainder of the evening was spent by discussing the "strikes and spares," the members of the team didn't get, and listening to a radio concert. Covers were laid for Francis Brehme, Miss Brehme, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heman, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hannes, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Keane, Mr. and Mrs. Fortunato.

ALL BADGERS CALLED TO PICNIC REUNION

All who ever lived in Wisconsin are invited to meet for the great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, August 25, 1923, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles.

Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbor even with ten thousand present.

There will be a brief program opening about two o'clock but the main purpose will be to have a good time. We want to see all the tourists and visitors from the old home state as well as our residents so as to make this the greatest picnic in our history.

Bring your baskets well filled and share with friends. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the silk souvenir badges. The president, Col. Frank H. True, phone 63730, will preside. Each one who learns of this picnic is asked to pass the word along. Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, Continental National Bank, 901 South Main street, phone 10261, or of the president, 63730.

POLYCLINIC OF ABRAMS METHOD IS OPENED

Equipped With Modern Appliances for Treatments Under New School

A new polyclinic specializing in the electronic treatments of Abrams has been opened up by a group of medical men and women on South Central avenue.

The clinic is equipped with all modern appliances, having departments in dentistry, osteopathy, electro-therapeutics and Dr. Abrams' methods of diagnostics and treatments.

In a reply to the question as to Dr. Abrams' standing in the world of pathology, neurology and diagnosis during an interview with Dr. Kirshner of the clinic, he said: "Dr. Albert Abrams was born in this state in 1863. He received his M. D. from the University of Heidelberg in 1882 and his A. M. at Portland university in 1892. He became LL. D. He took post-graduate courses in London, Berlin, Paris and Vienna. He was professor of pathology in Cooper Medical college 1893 to 1898; has been president of Emanuel Polyclinic since 1904. He is the fellow of the Royal Microscopical society; was president of the San Francisco Medical Chirurgical society in 1893; vice president of the California State Medical society in 1899. He is the author of 'Synopsis of Morbid Real Secretions'; 'Manual of Clinical Diagnosis'; 'Consumption, Its Causes and Prevention'; 'Transactions of the Antiseptic Club'; 'Scattered Leaves of a Physician's Diary'; 'Diseases of the Heart, Nervous Breakdown'; 'The Blues'; 'Diseases of the Lungs'; 'Self-Poisoning'; 'Diagnostic Therapeutics'; 'Spinal Therapeutics'; 'New Concepts in Diagnosis and Treatment'; 'Spondylitis'.

On being asked why the Abrams method laid so much stress on the blood, the doctor replied: "It is literally true that the blood will mirror that with which a person is afflicted. The story of the body condition lies in the blood. The difficulty has been to find a method that will make understandable the things that the blood is capable of revealing."

On being asked if he considered Dr. Abrams had discovered a method he replied: "Yes, I feel positive. Dr. Abrams found that every disease has its individual vibratory rate. He determined this vibratory rate and thereby is now capable of determining the disease. He went further and developed the means of measuring the degree to which the disease had advanced. I say that had he concluded there he would have given to science and humanity an unmeasurable gift, but he went further; he devised with the aid of electrical experts an instrument known as the 'oscilloclast' that is so constructed that it produces the destructive vibratory rates of the various diseased conditions, as tuberculosis, cancer, specific infections and various other diseases."

On requesting Dr. Bibble, who has charge of the electronic department of the polyclinic, for more information regarding the "oscilloclast" she said: "It is conceded that all matter has a specific vibratory rate and upon this principle the oscilloclast is built. The oscilloclast is constructed to produce definite vibratory rates. For example, when the oscilloclast is set at 'five,' as the rates pass through it it interrupts the rates in such manner as to correspond mathematically with the vibratory rate of tuberculosis. By conveying this rate to the tubercular area on the body it gets in step with the diseased condition and breaks it down."

The Polyclinic is situated at 903 South Central, and the entire group of doctors extended general invitation to the citizens of Glendale to visit the institute.

MORTAMINES

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

To a Boston physician, Dr. F. L. Burnett, of the Massachusetts General Hospital, we are indebted for a new word of practically suggestive value to both medicine and personal hygiene, the word "mortamines."

As may be inferred it is virtually an opposite for the word "vitamines," concerning which we have lately heard much. By "mortamines" Dr. Burnett would designate certain food factors hostile to nutrition, just as by "vitamines" dietitians designate food elements favorable, indeed indispensable, to nutrition.

More than this, and emphasizing the opposition between "mortamines" and "vitamines," Dr. Burnett speaks of mortamine A, mortamine B and mortamine C, much as the modern dietitian speaks of vitamine A, vitamine B and vitamine C, to discriminate between various vitamins.

And, what gives special significance to his coinage of the word "mortamines," his description of mortamines A, B and C suggests strongly that if they are present all the good derivable from vitamins A, B and C may be undone.

Thus, writing in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, Dr. Burnett concretely and graphically illustrates what he means by mortamines A, B and C, taking his illustrations from scenes that may daily be witnessed in any restaurant.

At one table he sees a man who has ordered a large portion of roast beef, fried potatoes, string beans, rolls and butter, a cup of coffee and a piece of apple pie.

This substantial meal is entirely consumed in the short space of seven minutes. This means imperfect mastication, hence an inadequate flow of saliva, with the result that the hasty eater is subject to the unfavorable influence of mortamine A—"food unrefined and improperly prepared" for the stomach and intestines.

At another table a young girl eats a plate of fruit salad with whipped cream, a coffee roll and butter, a cup of tea and a chocolate éclair. Dr. Burnett notes:

"In talking to her friend she said she got hungry in the middle of the morning and had a maple nut sundae and some frosted cake. When mixtures of this sort are continually being put into the body, is there any wonder that there is a mechanism by which such a mess is simply passed along the intestine rapidly and malnutrition ensues? Such is the action of an excess of sweet stuff and complex food—mortamine B."

A third customer of the restaurant, a haggard-looking man, calls for a plate of macaroni, two bran muffins and butter, a cup of tea and a piece of apple pie. Having dispatched these he takes from his pocket a sodium phosphate powder and swallows it with a glass of water. Dr. Burnett's comment is:

"With a badly balanced mixture of this kind there is evidently a necessity for the salt, and in this way the action of mortamine C—salts, oils and drugs that unduly increase the intestinal rate—is apparent."

Indigestion and malnutrition being the bane of multitudes it is certainly good to be reminded—as Dr. Burnett would remind us with his mortamines—that merely to include in the diet a sufficient quantity of vitamins is not to insure normal nutrition and digestive activity.

GULLS TO WAGE INSECT BATTLE

[By Associated Press]

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 17.—There is a plague of grasshoppers in the vicinity of Kaysville, Flathead county, Montana, and authorities of that town have written to officials here asking if it is possible to procure a lot of young seagulls from Great Salt Lake to do away with the pests. Flathead county is said to possess ideal feeding and nesting grounds for the birds.

Seagulls are sacred in Utah. They come in numbers annually from the Pacific Ocean to nest on the six islands in the lake.

In Flathead county, when the settlers were about to harvest their first crops in the Great Salt Lake valley there came a scourge of grasshoppers which the seagulls devoured. Hence the birds are under state protection. On the Mormon temple block there is a large monument erected to them.

Whether Kaysville will get seagulls from Utah or not is a question for the state fish and game department to decide.

ENCOURAGE TELEGRAMS

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Five million telegrams in connection with horse racing annually pass through the telegraph offices in England. The telegrams for the most part relate to betting, and it is estimated they represent a revenue of about £2,000,000 sterling. This is seven per cent of the total number of telegrams despatched in England.

BUILDING PERMITS

The building permits taken out in Glendale thus far in August total $23,659 more than were taken out during the entire month of August, 1922, with the last half of the month yet to be heard from. THOSE "RULES" —AND MORE

By CHARLES H. SHINN,
U. S. Forest Service

Visitors to the national forests must have heard often enough these six "rules of the game" which tell you to make sure that your campfire is dead, and other essentials. But from what do all such rules, and in fact all of the fundamental principles of healthy human existence derive their authority? Let us think about it for a minute.

That able psychologist, Dr. George M. Stratton of the University of California, in his book on "Anger, its moral and religious significance," has a chapter discussing the value of anger at one's own self when does wrong—anger that helps to arouse conscience—that which seeks for the widest good we know. What a superb thing is an indignant self control that faces the issue, acknowledges the carelessness about fire, recognizes one's duties to family, community, government and the social order.

In fact, there is a large loyalty, as all of us know, that is often spoken of, it somehow eludes expression, except in rare moments. Josiah Royce, L. H. Bailey, Dr. Jordan, Gifford Pinchot, have some times put the thought into words. Every forest man who has discovered for himself that the community gives him more in affection and in fellowship than he can fully return, and that the larger service of a cause—forestry—conservation, the up-keep of civilization itself—is the thing which has become the tie uniting him to his community, has achieved freedom; has risen to the larger outlook, is master of time and fate.

"GASS" TAX BIG COIN PRODUCER

[By Associated Press]

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 17.—The treasury of Wyoming was enriched by more than $22,000 in the first two months of operation of the state's new gasoline tax of one cent per gallon, according to figures compiled by John M. Snyder, state treasurer. In April, the first month in which the law, passed at the last session of the legislature, was effective, a total of $3,164 was collected. In May the amount increased to $14,321.

The total for June, not yet reported, is expected to exceed $20,000 and for July and August the amount is expected to be in excess of $30,000 per month. The estimate of the state highway department, that the new law would bring in a total of more than $160,000 per year, will be proven conservative, it is anticipated by state officials.

KING HEADS THE GOATS

LONDON (United Press).—King George has consented to become the patron of the British Goat society. The society was formed to promote the breeding of goats, and the king's membership has nothing to do with his duty of signing all bills which parliament passes.

Dear Mr. Barnes:—I should like to ask your advice on a little point about play with iron clubs, more particularly fair short shots. I have observed several very good players in addressing the ball, place the club so that the heel presses down noticeably more than the toe on the turf. Is there any special reason for this, and is it advisable to do it?

Answer:—This practice which you have observed is brought about by the player's preoccupation, which has really become a habit, of keeping his arms well in to the sides for these short iron shots, and is hardly done intentionally forgetting the heel of the club lower on the turf than the toe. The secret of control of short iron play is to keep the arms compact and to prevent the arms from working out too free from the sides.

There is nothing particularly to be gained by addressing the ball with the club cocked up at the toe, so long as you maintain the proper control of the swing. But if you find it easier and more natural to address the ball this way due to your position in the address the distance the ball is away from you, will probably get better results in this way than you would by standing more erect and grounding the club along the full length of the blade.

RUSSIA PLANS TO EXPORT 3 MILLION TONS OF GRAIN

[By Associated Press]

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—Russia's grain exportation this year is a burning question for Germany, which must buy a large portion of its breadstuffs abroad. Contracts are already reported to have been made by German organizations for 40 million gold marks' worth of Russian grain, chiefly rye. This transaction is said to have been financed jointly by the German government, the German industrialists and the German bankers.

Krassin and other representatives of Soviet Russia maintain that the Soviet government will be able to export three million tons of grain this season. They contend that the season there has been more favorable than in Central Europe. There has been more sunshine and no difficulty is anticipated in harvesting the grain because of rain. In all the Soviet government expects to collect about eleven million tons of grain this year in grain taxes, and is planning to export almost one-third of this amount.

Grain crops in Germany are in excellent condition as a result of the abundant rain which has fallen gradually throughout the spring and early summer. But the lack of sunshine before July 1 has caused apprehension less there be insufficient heat and sunshine to ripen the grain and make harvest possible.

HONOLULU, DRY, STILL POPULAR

[By Associated Press]

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 17.—The rumors that the Canadian-Australasian liners, plying between Canada and Australia, might eliminate Honolulu as a port of call because of the rigid enforcement of the prohibition law which permits vessels to enter an American port with only "medicinal liquor," have been denied here by Captain Rolfs, commander of the liner Niagara, and by T. H. Davies & Co., the line's agents.

Under the law, the Canadian-Australasian liners may be "wet" only until they reach Honolulu, "dry" between Honolulu and Suva, where liquor supplies may be obtained, and "wet" between Suva and Australia. Out an outbound trip from Australia, the vessel is "wet" until she reaches Honolulu and "dry" from this port to the mainland.

"PARK" CHURCH WINS CONVERTS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 17.—To meet the problem of getting people to attend church services in the summer time, when the outdoor is the strongest, Portland pastors, through the Portland Council of Churches, have inaugurated a series of outdoor meetings in the parks of the city. So successful and so well attended were the meetings, that plans were made to extend the services. Music by church choirs and preaching in the pleasant shade of the parks on the green grass have been found to attract many persons who would not attend regular church services.

It doesn't take a very large trouble to worry the small mind.

German Interests Take Over More Russian Land

[By Associated Press] BERLIN, Aug. 17.—Another agricultural concession has been taken in Russia by a German organization called the German-Russian Seed Growing company, which will establish an experimental farm on a tract of about 30,000 acres near Moscow. This is similar to the Krupp agricultural concession in the Ukraine. Other German interests soon will take over wood concession covering 200,000 acres of forest near Mya-Rybinsk. Sawmills will be erected and cellulose factories operated.

TELEPHONE BOOK IS OUT OF DATE ON AUG. 18

"The present, or February Los Angeles county telephone directory will be superseded on August 18 by a book bearing that date. Do not use the old directories after August 18.

"Due to the enormous number of books to be printed and delivered—275,000, or 562 tons of them—it will be impossible to complete distribution in one day."

This was the message today of Fred Deal, local manager of the telephone company, to the people of Glendale.

He added that the old directories will be collected as soon as possible after August 18 and the new ones distributed at the same time to those holding the obsolete books. Distribution, according to Mr. Deal, is scheduled to be completed as fast as possible.

The Los Angeles county directories now in the hands of subscribers will be worse than useless after midnight of August 18, because it is then that more than 70,000 Los Angeles telephone numbers will be changed. A call to Los Angeles using one of the old numbers after that date will result in service interference, according to Manager Deal.

So, before placing any call to Los Angeles after August 18, if one of the new directories is not at hand, the Glendale telephone user should call "Information" and make sure of the new number, or that the old number has not been changed.

The number changes in Los Angeles were necessary, said Manager Deal, because of the extremely rapid growth of the city, which is comparable to the growth of all Southern California. Just as Los Angeles is becoming a true metropolis, the Los Angeles telephone system must be put on a metropolitan basis.

Los Angeles, and all Southern California points are presenting a great problem of telephone growth," Manager Deal said. "One of the mile posts in this year's expansion program in that city will have been reached on midnight, August 18, when the big 'Olive cut-over' will put into use new machine switching apparatus to serve thousands of business district telephones. Coincident with the 'cut' more than 70,000 Los Angeles telephone numbers will be changed, and the new August 18 directory will go into use. Because of these changes Glendale should not fail to call 'Information' and make sure of their number before placing a telephone call to Los Angeles on August 18, and later. This should be done in every case until the August 18 directory is made available, and thereafter the new book should be used."—Adv.

HOMEWARD BOUND HOLDS MIRROR UP TO NATURE

Thrilling rescues at sea, terrific storms, said to equal in realism nature in her angriest mood, an unusually appealing love theme—these are the principal features of "Homeward Bound," a new Paramount picture starring Thomas Meighan, which is on view at the T. D. and L. theater today and tomorrow. Lila Lee, who played opposite Mr. Meighan in "The Ne'er-Do-Well," is his leading woman in this new screen offering.

Mr. Meighan is a seaman in this delightfully crisp story, while Miss Lee is the daughter of a ship owner who unaccountably detests the sailor in his employ. He is unaware that Jim Bedford, the sailor in question, loves his daughter, and that she returns his love. She goes to sea in a palatial yacht, the command of which had been wrested by Bedford from Svenson, a cowardly skipper. This sets in motion a series of thrilling events which goes far to make this perhaps the best sea picture screened in many months. Of course, the finish, although surprising, is pleasing to the spectator.

The supporting players are well known screen artists all of whom add value to the picture as pure entertainment. These include, among others, Charles Abbe, Wm. T. Carleton, Gus Weinberg, Maude Turner Gordon and Cyril Ring. The production was directed by Ralph Ince and the story was written by Peter B. Kyne, under the title, "The Light to Leeward."

PLENTY OF MUSIC SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17 (United Press).—Musical music that quickens the pulse and makes the feet step forward with the old-time military precision is an important element in the success of any gathering of former service men. San Francisco streets will resound with the martial notes of 100 bands and drum corps when members of the American Legion gather here on October 15 for their annual four days' national convention.

Thousands of dollars in cash prizes and many valuable gold and silver trophies will be distributed among the best musical organizations.

FIRST AID SHELF Every kitchen should have its first aid shelf, on which should be bottles of norexide and with hand ointment for burns and scalds, vaseline, a pair of scissors, cotton gauze and string. This shelf should be at some distance from the kitchen stove.

THE SMALL FOOT

At regular intervals there arises disputes as to in what section of the country the inhabitants enjoy the felicity of having the smallest feet. The matter is spoken of as though the small foot were a sign of virtue, or beauty, or intellectual superiority. As a matter of fact it is none of these things. Small feet may be becoming or otherwise. All depends upon how they harmonize with the rest of the mortal frame they sustain. At the extremity of a big body, tiny feet would not be artistic, durable, or in any way desirable. They could easily be construed into a deformity.

Just now New Yorkers are claiming the smallest feet. One naturally asks what a New Yorker is. New York is the dwelling place of aliens and of good people from the cow counties of the middle west. Comparatively few living there had the distinction to be born there. Why an aggregation of persons coming from overseas or from New England, Kansas, Nebraska, and the corn belt generally, should have small feet is puzzling, and why, if this is the case, they should brag about it, is more puzzling still.

Much to the merriment of New York Philadelphians, only a few miles away are credited with the biggest feet. Notwithstanding the residents of New York and of Philadelphia do not present visible contrast to the eye. One set is as well arrayed as the other, and both are clad in dress, and both engaged in social and commercial activities on scales quite similar. If the New Yorkers seem to have the smaller feet doubtless it is from the habit of wearing street toe, tight. The Philadelphian is less given to this. He or she gets shoes for comfort rather than with the idea of squeezing the foot, and then dissembling agony while bragging about the fineness of the member.

LURING THE CRIMINAL

Accounts of the summary manner in which the footpad denudes the members of automobile parties of their jewels continue to be frequent. It is a pity that the owner of expensive decorations may not put them on, and thus gloriously arrayed, brighten the highway at night, but sadly enough, this undertaking is attended by serious risk. The woman with a costly and gleaming necklace, or an arm weighted by bracelets that glitter in the light of the midnight lamp, may go out for the evening blazoning with glory, only to return later shorn of the beloved gauds. Same as to man who insists on displaying to an envious world, infested with thieves, the luster of his bullseye diamond.

Perhaps better times are coming. It may be that the prowlers of the nocturnal hour will turn honest and cease to prowl. Just at present this is not being done. Robberies are recorded at intervals so short that there seems to be a steady procession of them. The police are doing the best they know how. The thieves are even busier, and a jump ahead of the police.

Until reform shall have set in, the possessor of jewels, wishing to keep in possession, would be wise to wear them in a safe deposit box.

A QUESTIONABLE PRACTICE

While being brought from the state penitentiary to give testimony in a Los Angeles court, one of the most desperate felons ever convicted in this state, escaped from the officer in charge of him. He has used his liberty for a series of robberies netting him thousands of dollars. He is in the position of having nothing to lose, unless in his new career he should commit murder. The utmost the authorities could do to him would be to put him back in the cell whence he came.

If the testimony of a felon is considered valuable, it would appear to be the duty of somebody to procure it without such risk. In this instance the prisoner was expected to swear that the blame for certain crimes rested on him solely, and thus help clear the man accused of being his confederate. It is doubtful if a thoughtful jury could have been swayed by anything he might have said. The truthfulness of an habitual and degraded thief easily might be doubted. He could have had nothing to gain by having his associate found guilty. On the other hand, a pal on the outside might have been useful to him.

When the testimony of such a desperado is needed, or there is a theory that it is needed, it might be obtained without letting him have the opportunity of slugging his keeper, jumping from a train, and embarking on a fresh series of activities.

REBUILDING THE CABINET

Correspondents, all wholly without authority, and presumably without information, have begun reconstruction of the cabinet. This is a way they have of taking the opportunity to mention the sort of material they deem fitted for the position. With a stroke of the pen they exorcise some faithful official, and with another stroke, fill his place. Perhaps this is very kind of them. Perhaps, also, it is a piece of gratuitous impertinence.

It would not be singular were there to be some cabinet changes. The matter rests entirely with the President. The Harding cabinet had worked in admirable unison. Every member is devoted to the good of the country, and in sympathy with the policy of the administration. There is reason to believe that President Coolidge, close as he was to the late President, has full knowledge of this. Nevertheless, a cabinet is constituted of intimate advisors, and it would not be strange were the element of friendship to have an appreciable effect. There was, for example, a relationship between Mr. Harding and Attorney General Daugherty so grounded in personal esteem, that a desire on the part of Mr. Daugherty to withdraw, would not be surprising. The same may be true as to some others.

President Coolidge has the confidence of the country. He chooses to retain the cabinet intact, no fault could be found with his course. Should he instigate or accept changes, this, too, would be regarded as his own affair, and the public would be satisfied. Meanwhile the irresponsible correspondent suggests and conjectures, but without adding to the sum of human knowledge.

A youth who had made the ascent of Mt. Wilson conceived the idea that he could gain time by taking a short cut down. He turned up two days later, while parties were in the hills searching for him. He was nearly exhausted, was suffering from fright and hunger, and altogether the experiment was a failure. There is manifest rashness in monkeying with a mountain trail. The "short cut" is likely to be the longest way home.

Having been arrested in Los Angeles on the charge of swindling in the east, a man gave heavy bail. He said he did not want to go back yet, as the "oil game here was good." Persons with money to invest are cautioned that dealing in oil is not a game but a legitimate business.

Newspaper correspondents ought to abandon the habit of mentioning Mrs. Peete as "queen of San Quentin." She is not queen of anything. She is serving a life sentence for a cold-blooded murder, and subject to the rules that hedge about the rest of the unfortunate there.

It may as well be admitted that the term "sheik" has been worked to death, and that there was no sense nor revelancy in it from the beginning.

RARE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

When parents are complaining that they cannot give their children advantages I feel like reminding them there are two outstanding accomplishments in reach of every child and that a minimum number of people ever avail themselves of the opportunities on every hand for mastering them. I mean the invaluable accomplishments of reading and speaking the English language.

The country is full of mothers who are running about distractedly seeking some means of giving their daughters music lessons; yet the ability to speak intelligently in musical, well modulated tones would do more for the girls than music lessons on half a dozen instruments. There is no lure like the lure of a pleasant voice. How many people do you know who possess such a thing?

How many of your acquaintances know enough about their native tongue to make a statement of fact and select the words used in it with a discrimination that will preclude misunderstanding? How many people do you know who can stand up before half a dozen acquaintances and tell a plain tale of every day matters in such a way that it will be attractive, or even hold the attention?

Go to any court in the city and listen for an hour to the mumbling and chewing of words which there passes current as spoken language. Try to understand the average practicing attorney if you happen to be 20 feet away from him or back of him. Take down if you can the statement of any witness summoned to give evidence and see how much of what he says gets to you.

Go to any employment office and listen to those applying for jobs. Count the number who can set forth clearly and effectively their needs and their powers.

Not 50 per cent of the members in any legislative body in this country can speak so that you will wish to listen to him.

And when it comes to writing, one who has to communicate through that medium is commonly agast. Aside from professional writers, teachers, ministers and professional folk a vast and increasing number of those who pass through our public schools are unable to write a simple, clear statement of fact without decorating it with all kinds of extraneous stuff and wandering all over the paper.

Professional critics, editors of papers and magazines, all people whose business it is to communicate or receive communications through writing, are constantly hampered and annoyed by the general inability to handle English.

What is the matter with us that we so palpably scorn the correct and beautiful use of that medium of expression which is common to all, but which few, sadly, few ever master?

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

Organization plays an important part in everything we do. Directness and clarity are attained only through careful planning and the organization of one's material and ideas. Development of thought in a logical and effective manner and the achievement of one's aims are made possible because one has carefully thought out the way to proceed and has gone on step by step in an orderly manner. The result is the saving of time and effort, the conservation of energy. It may appear that too much time is being taken up in the beginning, but before the task is completed, the economy of a right start will be apparent.

Organization plays a large part in the writing and speaking of English as it does in any other activity. The well planned, concise, direct and well rounded writing or speech is clear, pleasing and effective. This applies to a book, an essay, a story, a report, or a paragraph.

Vocabulary
Prodigious means enormous or extraordinary, as in size, quantity, extent, or degree; immense; vast; excessive or intense. Also, prodigious means marvelous; amazing; outrageous. Note the following example: It is human to worry prodigiously about what other people are saying or doing.

Queries
"A Reader," Des Moines, Iowa: "In a book by an eminent writer I find this sentence: 'If other things are fairly equal, such an one will carry the habits indicated into his work.' Will you please advise me if this is correct?"

Answer: According to modern usage, such a one is correct.

To J. R. Beal, Chicago, Ill.: Blocked form of business letter is better for than blocked form of a business letter.

THE LISTENING POST

The rules, regulations, ordinances, mandates, laws, fiat, directions, orders, and the like that are being continually put forth are, as is always stated, "to speed up traffic."

It seems the way of the present day to speed up everything.

We speed up business.

We speed up travel.

We speed up everything that has to do with any of the processes of life and action.

And why do we speed up everything to such an extent?

The business man who speeds up continually sees nothing much of life.

He is merely in a whirligig.

Round and round he goes.

And where he stops he does not himself know.

The motorist who speeds up never sees anything.

He merely whirls along in a cloud of dust.

His eyes glued to the road.

His hands fixed to the wheel.

His face looking like that of a gladiator waiting the death stroke.

Eyes fixed, muscles taut, nerves strained, jaw set.

Thinking he is enjoying himself.

The present is the time of mania for speed.

Everything is being made to go faster.

The air line across the continent will soon be traveled in twenty-four hours.

Why?

If we annihilate distance, what will there be left to do?

Songs of the Poets

The Peaks—By Stephen Crane

In the night
Gray, heavy clouds muffled the valleys,
And the peaks looked toward God alone.
"O Master, that movest the wind with a finger,
Humble, idle, futile peaks are we.
Grant that we may run swiftly across the world
To huddle in worship at Thy feet."

In the morning
A noise of men at work came through the clear blue miles.
And the little black cities were apparent.
"O Master, that knowest the meaning of raindrops,
Humble, idle, futile peaks are we."

Give voice to us, we pray O Lord,
That we may sing Thy goodness to the sun."
In the evening
The far valleys were sprinkled with tiny lights,
"O Master,
Thou that knowest the value of kings and birds,
Thou hast made us humble, futile, idle peaks.
Thou only needest eternal patience:
We bow to Thy wisdom O Lord—
Humble, idle, futile peaks."

In the night
Gray, heavy clouds muffled the valleys,
And the peaks looked toward God alone.

THE JAPANESE ARE A CURIOUS PEOPLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN I say the Japanese are a curious people I mean they are curious to me, an American. I am, I suppose, quite as curious to them.

The following peculiarities are not intended to imply any slur upon them, and are written in no spirit of superiority. Exception, also, may well be taken to every statement, for every statement is a generalization, and I quite agree with the saying that "every generalization is untrue, including this one."

The traveler from America in Japan sees:

A nation that lives in the woodshed. (Practically all the houses both in the country and in the great cities are tiny one-story wooden affairs.)

A nation that lives on the floor. They sit on the floor, sleep on the floor and practically eat on the floor.

The adults ride in baby wagons and the babies live on their mothers' backs. (The jirikisha was invented in 1869 by a missionary living near Yokohama, who fixed over a baby carriage for the purpose of giving an airing to his invalid wife.)

A nation that squats. Where an American would sit the Japanese squats to rest himself.

A nation that goes about the streets in bath robes. (A man in a kimono looks like a man in a bath robe.)

A nation that goes on stilts. (They wear wooden clogs which are raised about two inches from the ground by two small cross pieces. The clatter of this wooden foot gear in a railway station or on the streets is one of the unforgettable sounds of the country.)

A nation that farms under water. (Rice, which is the principal crop, must be cultivated part of the time under water. It must be about the hardest and most back-breaking labor in the world.)

A nation that pulls the wheelbarrow. (They pull all vehicles and lead all animals, where an American would push and drive. They even pull the spade which is shaped like a hoe. They also pull the knife and the saw.)

A nation with no millinery stores. (The women dress their hair elaborately; they wear no hats.)

Houses with no furniture. (I went through the vast royal palace at Kyoto and saw some thirty-six rooms and not one stick of furniture of any kind.)

A nation that reads and writes downward or from right to left, instead of from left to right.

A language with no alphabet. (The characters represent syllables, not letters.)

A nation that writes one's name Smith John Mr. Instead of Mr. John Smith.

A nation that is ruled by its ancestors. (Americans are ruled by their children.)

A nation that counts on their fingers by turning them down instead of holding them up.

A nation that figures on an abacus instead of on a slate or a piece of paper.

A nation that writes with a brush instead of a pencil or pen.

A nation that uses its toes, instead of deforming them in shoes as Europeans and Americans do.

A nation that is uniformly polite, instead of uniformly impolite.

A nation that is clean and odorless. ("The Japanese crowd has no odor,"—Lafayette Hearns.)

A nation that has inexcusably offended Europeans and Americans by being efficient, good natured, hard working, shrewd, and declining to consider themselves as inferiors.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Fires continue to demonstrate that California forests, while not extinct, are on the way to extinction.

Progress on every hand! Twice as many automobiles have been stolen this year than were stolen the year before.

President Coolidge has not revealed the extent to which he feels cheered by assurance that he has the approval of Senator Lodge.

It is true that a ruined reputation is one instrument of publicity, but the publicity isn't worth the cost.

Fulsome praise from the lips of men lately engaged in traducing the President, grate on the senses. Silence would at least be decent.

Dockets of criminal courts are clogged more by artificial and useless delay than by the number of crimes.

Reports from Hearst's representatives in Russia are not awaited with interest.

Thousands of ex-Iowans had a picnic recently, but really an ex-Iowan living in southern California feels as though having a picnic all the time.

The man who paid $10 for a $1000 dog really felt that he had made a poor bargain after the real owner of the animal had appeared.

Last Sunday half a million automobiles were loose on the highways of this community, and many a pedestrian felt that he had to dodge them all.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Recently the authorities near San Bernardino were much concerned to save a prisoner from being lynched. Such an attitude was proper of course, and quite in consonance with the spirit of their oaths.

Nevertheless, had they been less alert, and the fellow had been lynched, the matter could have been viewed with a singular lack of regret. Mob law is bad always, and yet occasionally it seems to fit a case that is beyond the statutes.

A man knocked at the door of a humble home, feigning illness. The householder went to aid him, and was subdued by display of a deadly weapon. He was taken some distance from the house, tied to a tree, and then his captor went back to the unguarded home, to rob, and to assault the helpless wife and mother he found asleep there.

This was the fellow that citizens wanted to lynch. Well, he has been saved. Although not fit to live, he will be sent to prison and, according to precedent as generally understood, may expect a parole without long delay.

A mother calls upon her daughter to come home. The daughter declines, and says that she will sue mother for a million. The daughter, still good looking despite a strenuous, if not extensive life, gets her picture in the papers.

If she fails to get her millions, she can paste the picture in her scrapbook.

Recently an automobilist had the kindness to give a couple of pedestrians a lift. Such gratitude as they may have felt found expression in an attempt to murder and rob him. As a rule such attempts have succeeded, but this time the victim proved to be a fighter, and he drove the pair away, thoughtfully biting a finger from the one who was trying to choke him. The fellow may have his finger by calling for it.

There are many drivers who would be glad to extend the courtesy of the road, but they do not dare. So many are the rogues and thugs haunting the highway, that such politeness no longer is safe.

The rule that father must appear in court when the naughty boy of the family has played hooky, seems to have its good points. Some parents are negligent, and others easily hoodwinked. It is easy for a mischievous lad to devise an excuse. The practice of imitating the parental signature, thus lying both at home and at school, is evil. It flourishes mostly because father is unsuspicious. A summons to court would be an education to him, and probably a reform for the heir.

It is impossible to imagine any ambition more absurd than that of the Hohenzollerns to be called back to the throne of Germany. There is no German throne. When the one that used to be toppled it carried the reigning family down for keeps.

Formerly it was said that the crown prince had the physiognomy of a rabbit. He seems also to possess the intelligence of the animal.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

LEARNING TO READ

"You won't have any trouble teaching him to read," said his mother proudly. "I've taught him the alphabet and he can spell out lots of words for himself."

"Not really?" said the teacher in grief.

"Why of course. Aren't you glad to be saved the trouble?"

"Well, you haven't saved me any trouble! I'm wondering whether or not you have made me some. You see we don't teach the children to read by way of the alphabet."

"Well, I can't help it if you don't teach properly! I know that children ought to know their alphabet, so I taught mine. Even if you don't teach it he knows it," and mother marched off indignantly wondering what the schools are coming to when children aren't even taught the letters.

"They aren't taught the letters because they don't need them to learn to read. And mothers can help children learn to read if they want to and so give the children real pleasure and assistance, too."

When the little chap sits down on the floor and reads the newspaper to you he is beginning to read, although he holds the paper upside down or sideways and chants syllables that resemble no form of human speech but his own.

There is the time to give him a Mother Goose book or the form of it that you like best and teach him to say the rhymes by saying them over and over to him while he gazes solemnly at the pictures. Soon as you read along he will begin supplying the last word of the line. "Fiddle, Moon, Fun, Spoon." He does this with much emphasis and many chuckles. He is reading, although he doesn't know a single letter.

You read day by day and he listens and watches as he pleases. You never insist on anything. When he wants to be read to you read to him. When he wants to listen you recite to him. When he wishes to chant or fill in pauses in the story he does so.

Now he surprises and delights you by picking up his Mother Goose of his Stevenson and reading to you from the right place with the book rightside up, the verse under the picture.

Of course he does not recognize the words individually. He remembers the story and the picture and the general form of it assists him to identify it.

Still he is reading. The next thing to do is to help him identify a word in the story, an action word is best; after that a name word.

That is the way the best teachers teach children to read. The words and then the letters come after the story is memorized. There is no trouble about learning the alphabet. It comes all in good time because after the children have mastered the words the teacher helps him with the sounds so that he may interpret new words for himself. Then he finds himself master of the alphabet.

Please remember that learning to read is a tremendous undertaking and it strains the child's mind and eyes and strength to their limits. If you undertake it at all be sure you know what you are about or you'll do damage. It is better to let the teacher do it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It was an absolutely indefensible action on my part. I have more cameras now than I could use if I had as many hands as a centipede has legs. But I had just heard of a new one and dropped into a camera store to find out.

"I'll look it up," said the clerk. "We've never heard of it, I'm sure."

So he looked it up. Then he called in the manager. They telephoned to other stores. They examined catalogues and ran through the files of camera magazines. In the end they could find no trace. So I apologized and started on my way.

"I'm sorry," I said. "It is a shame to put you to all this trouble."

"But that is nothing," said the clerk. "If we began to worry about going to a little trouble in business, we might as well put up the shutters."

He made a customer of me right there. Of course, I have not bought anything yet, but I'm trying to. Sooner or later I will have a need, and when I do he's the man who will satisfy it. Already I have passed on the word to a few friends of mine.

Then—that very afternoon—a stranger came into my own office and hemmed and hawed about in a blundering manner, and stammered out some questions. He did not seem to know just what it was he wanted and I grew impatient. My liver isn't what it used to be, and my head ached and I was just beginning to stiffen up when I remembered the clerk.

So I changed my tune and began to smile. It is irrelevant to the story, really, that I did the best bit of business I had done in weeks. The important point is that the clerk in the camera store passed on a new rule of action.

It is true, come to think of it, that when we begin to worry about taking trouble we might as well put up the shutters.

GOLDEN WEST SANITARIUM SITE TO BE SOLD

To Yield to Increasing Value of the Property in Vicinity

"All the world loves a lover" and that is doubly true if that person loves the community in which she lives. Mrs. Alle Taylor Anderson, new owner of the Golden West Sanitarium is one of that kind. Having recently taken over the Thornycroft Sanitarium she is determined to make it the best equipped private hospital in the southland. It takes money. Yes, indeed, it does. But anyone who has followed the career of Mrs. Anderson since coming to Glendale five years ago with some thirty dollars in her pocket book and three small children to support, will agree that when she makes up her mind to do a thing, it is done.

Mrs. Anderson through all her struggle has never lost for a moment her cheerful disposition and pleasing personality.

While Mrs. Anderson is an enthusiastic believer in the future of Glendale and is not blind to the fact that the old site of the Golden West Sanitarium located at 1125 E. California avenue, embracing an acre and a half in the heart of Glendale, is rapidly increasing in value, nevertheless she has determined to offer this property at public auction and to further this plan has secured the services of Victor M. Clark and staff of whom W. Dwight Hammond is auctioneer, and on next Tuesday, August 21, at 2 P. M., this splendid property will be sold under the hammer. She feels that to do credit to herself and the institution of which she is now the head, she must concentrate her efforts along this one line, hence her willingness to sacrifice this property which for several years was the home of the Golden West Sanitarium.

The many friends of Mrs. Anderson who have rejoiced with her over her past success, will join in best wishes for the success of this venture and in an admiration for the determined spirit she is manifesting in placing her property upon the auction block that with the proceeds of this sale she may increase her usefulness in the community for which she was always been a staunch booster.

SPORT HEROES FALL AND GET THE 'RAZZ'

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Fame is short lived and glory dies soon. Laurel crowns won on sport fields are not evergreen and they soon wither and die.

Nothing is more pitiful than the sight of a one-time king with a tarnished crown and the threadbare remnants of his regal robes.

Before the avenues to big money were open to the modern professional athletes, the conquest was considered worthy of the acclaim, the applause and the glory attending victory.

But with hundreds of examples to prove the emptiness of glory and the fickleness of fame, it is not surprising that modern athletes are commercial.

They know now, and they put it in practice that: "Fame is a joke, and without dough you're broke; glory is the bunk, and without cash you're sunk."

Among the retinue that has attached itself to Jack Dempsey, is a colorful character, known and remembered wherever the champion has been on business pertaining to his title. He is always on the scene, always around sounding the praises of the champion and offering his fists to back up his point.

"See your old friend So-and-so is out here with you," a visitor remarked to Dempsey in Great Falls before the Gibbons fight.

"Yes, he's always around, but he'll be in the other fellow's dressing room after the fight, if I lose," Dempsey replied.

Fair weather friends—and the world of sport is filled with them—always are found around the winner's dressing room. Just a few sticks to the champion when he goes down, but those few are worth the other flock.

Last summer, in Jersey City, just before Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler entered the ring to fight for the world's lightweight championship, a rather disheveled stow-away sneaked out from under the stands and cautiously pressed down to the ringside to tell the press he was there even if he had to hide away for over a day under the seats.

He was immediately grabbed by a couple of "bulls" and thrown out. He was Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world.

WESTERN LABOR STATUS NORMAL

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 17.—Employment conditions throughout the country, and especially on the Pacific coast, continue satisfactory, according to a report of the employment service, U. S. department of labor, made public here by J. A. Kelly, district director. There is a strong demand for both skilled and unskilled workers, the report shows. The situation in the building industry is especially favorable.

Eley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. ELEY

MY COUNTRYMEN

Oh, ye, my countrymen,
So many to the dregs have drunk the cup,
So many lives of heroes yielded up;
Blood spilt until the fields of war were wet,
Hearts broken with grief and trial. Know ye yet
The measure of the sacrifice they give
That ye may live?

Oh, ye, my countrymen!
Ye of the field and in the street and mart.
Think on these heroes all who played the part
Of dauntless men and in the bitter strife
Gave all to country—treasure, home and life!
Lives given for liberty and blessings fair
That ye might share.

Oh, ye, my countrymen!
By that fair flag that tells of victory won
By death, and by the deeds heroic done
In war and peace; by every soul that sleeps
Where Glory's everlasting vigil keeps,
Be ye reborn, reconsecrate, remade,
And unafraid.

Oh, ye, my countrymen!
They tempt ye with the tinsel of a day;
They bid ye for a pittance to betray
The patriot dead, who gave the tombs their dust
That no dishonor might attain their trust.
Oh, ye, my countrymen, again, again,
Think on these men!

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

When we have nothing else to do we cuss the mail and telephone service. There are some very annoying occurrences at times in both that seem utterly inexcusable, but on the other hand, think of the millions of calls and the millions of pieces of mail matter that go through quickly, expeditiously and accurately every day. But we are prone to dwell upon the unpleasant things to the detriment of our own peace of mind.

As far as I am personally concerned, I have little to complain of in the way of poor service. The few annoying mistakes I have been the victim of are not so exasperating as incomprehensible. For instance, recently I received a letter from a brother addressed to an old number of seven years ago. It was delivered promptly and showed that the directory searcher at the post office has no trouble in locating me, as my address had not changed in the seven years since I moved from the old location. But that same week a letter from the same party and bearing the same old address was returned to him as undelivered. Now why could not the directory searcher locate me as easily one day in the week as another? Again, about two years ago, I wrote a relative living 16 miles distant, on a rural delivery route, that I would visit her the next Saturday, mailing the letter on Wednesday. She got it a little over two weeks later, although it was correctly addressed.

A letter sent to a Long Beach address last week took five days to get there and frequently daily papers mailed to Los Angeles from Glendale are not delivered for four days. In fact there will be none for three, four or five days, then the whole bunch descend in one avalanche.

As to telephone delays, it took me a little over five hours the other day to get a call through to Long Beach, 30 miles distant. Using Mark Twain's method of calculating the ancient and future lengths of the Mississippi river, that would mean 90 hours for a call to reach San Francisco, and 25 days for a New York connection. Not long since a lady tried strenuously for 15 minutes to get into communication with an office that has three phones, at the slackest hour of the day, between 5 and 6 p. m.

As I said, these queer happenings are not so annoying as unexplainable, and we wonder greatly that a service generally so efficient, suddenly lapses into chaos.

Our very efficient and gentlemanly city engineer, Mr. Dupuy, seems either to have incurred the malignant hostility of Councilman Kimlin, or else that gentleman expects him to add to his duties the work generally expected of a steam roller, for in the report of the council proceedings, as detailed in last Friday's Daily Press by our own Bert Marple, occurs the following paragraph: "On motion of Councilman Kimlin, the city engineer was instructed to roll down Western avenue, and put it in the best condition possible." I am surprised that any councilman should move that any city official be required to perform such an undignified act, and that his colleagues would support him in such a motion.

M'DANIEL TO BE CANDIDATE AT EUREKA

Commander of Legion at Redlands Out for Head of State Legion

(Special to Glendale Daily Press)
SANTA ANA, Aug. 17.—Bruce W. McDaniel, commander of Redlands post of the American Legion, was unanimously endorsed as the candidate of the Eleventh congressional district for the post of State Commander of the American Legion at a pre-convention caucus held here late last night.

This endorsement means McDaniel will be a popular candidate at the state convention which opens in Eureka August 27. H. E. Cramas, commander of the San Bernardino county interpost council, presided. The meeting also passed favorable resolutions introduced by Arrowhead Springs hospital post, Imperial Valley county council posts and Riverside county posts respectively, requesting the purchase of a hospital site similar in climate and facilities to Arrowhead hospital for the treatment of certain specific cases. The acceptance of the Boulder dam and all American canal project and exemption of all Legion post club homes from taxation.

fied act, and that his colleagues would support him in such a motion.

In the year 1872, as many old timers of Indiana and Illinois will remember, a strange disease swept over these two states attacking horses and killing a great many. It was called the "epidemic" and was simply an aggravated case of cold, but many a fine horse and many a family pet was swept away before healing remedies could be found. At about the same time a disease called cholera was very prevalent among humans, in southern central Illinois, proving fatal in many cases. It would found that families that did not keep their premises clean but allowed a mudhole here and there, were more susceptible to the disease and unless there was an immediate cleanup, fatalities would result. Also, persons who were badly scared proved easy victims. My father went fearlessly among the scores attacked by the strange disease, no matter how unsanitary the premises were, but he never felt the least apprehension regarding himself and suffered not the slightest symptoms. Many others, notably the ministers of the little town, did likewise, with the same result. But many actually died from fear.

In these days when it is almost impossible to employ a girl to do housework and do it acceptably, it is refreshing to hark back 30 or 40 years to the days of "hired girls." Then many farmers' daughters, from 16 to 25, were eager to hire out to town families for $1.50 a week and board, and most of them were fine housekeepers and good cooks, too. They would actually save money out of their wages, and buy their party dresses. It was not only poor girls who would thus "work out." I knew of many cases where daughters of wealthy farmers, that is, wealthy as compared to some city business men, gladly accepted such positions. They generally went home for part or all of Sunday and had one or two nights off during the week if they desired.

Those were the days when we nearly all used wood for heat and cooking, paying from $1.00 to $1.50 a cord for it, or, as was frequently the case in my family, we'd get it for the cutting and hauling. More than one winter my father, my older brother and myself went to the woods a mile or two from town every Saturday to cut and haul wood. In some cases a farmer who had bought 30, 40 or more acres of virgin forest would pay $5 an acre and give all the wood except rail and large saw timber, to anyone who would cut and take it away. And those were the days when every farmer killed a beef occasionally and divided it around among his neighbors, also butchered and packed down several hogs each year. The butcher shop, we called them, in the towns, sold round steak at 1-3 cents a pound, the finest of roasts for 10 cents and other cuts in proportion. Liver was given to all who asked for it and bacon sold for from 6 to 8 cents a pound. The best of butter brought 15 cents a pound or less, and eggs from 5 to 8 cents a dozen in the spring season. I have seen a country store keeper haul in 1000 eggs packed in oaks in his wagon box. Cases were unknown then, and eggs had to be packed in oats or chopped straw. Sorghum molasses, made on the farm, was bought by the store keepers for 10 cents and 12½ cents a gallon and retailed at 15 or 20 cents. A real good syrup brought 25 cents.

About 15 years ago, there lived away out on East Ninth street (now Windsor road) near Verdugo road, P. A. C. Moore and family. We called him "Pack" for short. He had several husky boys and he gave them plenty to do on a small ranch, later turning it into a dairy. Mr. Moore was very active in the endeavor, something less than 10 years ago, to secure the opening of a new 100-foot wide paved street, storm drain and right of way for a P. E. loop line, all in one, to be named Sycamore Canyon boulevard. We already had a Sycamore Canyon road, extending east from Verdugo road just north of Second street (now California avenue) and this was to be continued west and then curving around until it led directly south, crossing Broadway just west of the school-house, and extending due south to the prolongation of Eleventh street (now Acacia avenue) in old Tropi-

co. This street was not only to be a fine boulevard for travel but to be so constructed that it would carry the flood waters from Sycamore canyon, that had been wont to wander at times all over the eastern section of the city and do great damage, down to the wash which skirts the southeastern hills. And still more, the P. E. company agreed, if the sum of $40,000 was raised and turned into its coffers, to construct a loop from its East Broadway extension down the center of the boulevard to the south limits, then around to join the main line somewhere near Cypress. Mr. Moore entered heart and soul into this project, with many of his neighbors, and pledged a goodly sum toward the bonus for the P. E. The plan fell through, finally, much to Mr. Moore's disappointment.

A few years ago he started the manufacture of a very appetizing syrup, with a factory in Oakland, and worked several of the boys into it, meeting with great success. The entire family moved to Oakland and remained several years. Now Mr. Moore has given over much of the management of the business to the younger lads and moved to Los Angeles. He and his good wife are now on their way home from an extended visit in the east, and will doubtless be in Glendale on their return.

Mr. Moore has been devoting some of his time recently to the building business, as has his oldest son, Presley, also well known in Glendale, who now lives at Compton. "Pack" and his good wife, as well as their lusty progeny, are well remembered by the older citizens, who will be glad to see them again and would rejoice to welcome them back into the fold of true Glendalians.

Many American cities owe their names to historical events or personages, others to memories of the homeland across the waters, some were given by the Indians, French, Spanish and the like, but there is
